HOW TO WORK WITH YOUR SPOUSE

Consider the challenges of a straightforward business partnership and then think about the challenges of a marriage. Put them together and ponder the multiple difficulties!

Though there are no accurate statistics about what happens when spouses try to run a business together, expert estimates are grim.

Still interested? Well there is potentially an upside... you could achieve tremendous personal growth. To be confronted constantly by someone who know you so well, in such close quarters, you’re going to have an extraordinary opportunity to work on your flaws and develop as a person.

When it does work, it can be great but there are some things you need to put in place in order for this to happen. These are:

- DON’T DO IT BY ACCIDENT
  Go into business with your spouse only if the two of you have mutually planned it, not because other options have failed.

- ACKNOWLEDGE COMPETITIVENESS
  Recognise that in a business you are always competing, even with your spouse.

- BE PREPARED FOR BUSINESS TO GET PERSONAL
  Talking to a business partner who is also your spouse is different. You take stuff more personally and your spouse is more honest with you which can be both good and bad.

- DON’T GET STUCK IN TYPICAL GENDER ROLES
  At the office and at home, start with a clean sheet of paper.

- ESTABLISH A REAL SPEARATION BETWEEN WORK AND HOME
  Schedule quarterly long weekends with zero business. Take occasional separate vacations with the guys or gals. Go on actual dates with no business talk. Make rules.

- FIGHT THE BUSINESS’S UNFAIR PULL
  Every entrepreneurial couple claims the relationship is their first priority, but then the phone rings. Learn not to answer it!

- GET A COUNSELLOR OR A COACH
  It must be one who can sort through the business and the marriage simultaneously. A bonus: the simple act of deciding to use one is a powerful reminder of the marriage’s priority.

- KEEP ASKING THE RIGHT QUESTIONS
  Am I being true to myself? Am I helping my partner be true to himself/herself?

The pay off for those who can make entrepreneurial coupling work is that they learn that the business is just a vehicle to bigger and better things. Our business and careers are a means to fund what we set out and want to achieve in life.
